MINUTES

Attendees: William Morrow, John McLaughlin, Mark Leuchter, Agnes Choi, Andrew Brockman, Colleen Shantz, Ryan Schellenberg, Laura Hare, Ronald Charles, Rebecca Idestrom, Daniel Smith, Tony Burke, Matthew Thiessen, Philip Harland, Philip Yoo, Sara Milstein, Willi Braun, Mark Boda, Ian Scott, Judith Newman, Christine Mitchell, Eileen Schuller, Brigidda Bell, Gregory Fewster, Anne Letourneau, Alicia Batten, Morgyn Babins, Sara Parks, Claude Cox, Ehud Ben Zvi, Heather Macumber, Richard Ascough, Margaret MacDonald, Isaac Soon, Marion Taylor, Xenia Chan

1. Welcome: Land acknowledgement from Colleen Schantz recognizing the meeting (hosted from Toronto) is taking place on indigenous First Nations land.

2. Approval of agenda

Motion: Willi Braun Second: ? CARRIED

3. Approval of minutes of 2021 Annual General Meeting

Motion: Matthew Thiessen Second: Rebecca Idestrom CARRIED

4. Business arising from the minutes

None arising.

5. President's report (Colleen Schantz)

Recognition of work from exec; thanks to Morgyn Babins and Agnes Choi for their service. Discussion of the ad-hoc committee report: winners of awards will be informed before the annual meeting; more explicit definition of "excellence" for book awards; repurposing the Wagner Award; 3 person program committee (trial period).

Motion (Christine Mitchell) that the CSBS sign on to the Federation charter form EDID. MOTION PASSES

Motion (Matthew Thiessen) that the Wagner award be altered to support collaborative research. Request for clarification on whether it will still require use of tech. MOTION PASSES

Motion (Judith Newman) That the membership thank the members of the ad-hoc committee for their work. MOTION PASSES

6. Vice-President's report (Judith Newman)

Nominations for Executive vacancies

Vice-President (and President Elect): Richard Ascough
Programme Coordinator: Ken Ristau
Student Liaison: Laura Kassar

Motion to close nominations MOTION PASSES

7. Communication Officer's report (Matthew Thiessen)

- 1) Increase in social media following/presence
- 2) Continuing problems/issues with email communication; people need to be more mindful of the emails from the society they receive and should check their junk mail folders frequently.
- 3) No paper award submissions this year.
- 4) Book awards -- 4 noms for Beare; 5 for Scott

"Excellence" - definition offered in relation to book award consideration; award preferences should go to people who have held it before, and nobody should receive it more than twice.

Morrow: why "outstanding" and not "excellence" in the Scott Award listing on the website? – additional discussion regarding why the language definition is required.

8. Membership Secretary's report and approval of new members (Laura Hare)

Moment of silence to recognize those who passed away

Motion to approve the 22 new members:

Moved: Laura Hare CARRIED

143 members (130 have paid); increase from last year.

9. Treasurer's Report (Laura Hare)

- See Appendix for full report (including the list of new members).

Motion to raise fees: Laura Hare
(in relation to payment/non payment for SR)

Discussion of motion: fee changes should be raised as necessary in light of inflation and matching expenditures of the society. CARRIED

Endowment report – See Appendix

10. Executive Secretary's report (Mark Leuchter)

Nothing to report at this time.

11. Student Liaison report (Morgyn Babins)

No submissions for student essay prize this year

Grad student writings sessions scheduled for the summer

12. Programme Coordinator's report (Agnes Choi)

Thanks to membership for support and contributions to the conference

49 presenters from across the globe via zoom

New seminars announced for 2023-2024-2025

2023 Congress at York U. in person May 27-June 2

13. Other business (Judith Newman)

Beare Award and Scott Award

Ryan Schellenberg (Beare): Abject Joy: Paul, Prison and the Art of Making Due
(Oxford Univ. Press)

Sara Milstein (Scott): Making A Case: The Practice Roots of Biblical Law

3. Notes

There are currently 143 paid-up members, of whom 130 paid their membership fees since September 1, 2021 (i.e., in the current fiscal year). This is a fairly significant increase compared to last year: at this time last year, there were 124 paid-up members. There have been 121 renewals or returning members since last year's meeting, compared with 109 last year, and 22 new members, compared with 15 last year.

The numbers this year are encouraging as we have more members than we had in any of the previous three years, but we are still seeing a significant drop compared with 2018, when CSBS had 192 active members (170 renewals and 22 new members).

CSBS Financial Report, May 30, 2022

1. Finances: General and Restricted Funds

The General Fund covers all of the Society's annual operating costs, while the Restricted Funds cover specifically designated expenses, such as book awards and student prizes. The Society pays for all of its annual operating costs and Restricted Funds expenses from an account with Royal Bank, which, as of May 30th, has a balance of $25,353.29. An approximate explanation of the society's 2021-2022 General Funds and Restricted Funds thus far is laid out in the two charts below: Statement of Income (Fig. 1); and Statement of Expenses (Fig. 2). Our fiscal year runs from September 1 to August 31.

As the charts make clear, so far this year we have an excess of revenue over expenses in the General Fund of about $2260 (and I do not anticipate any major expenditures between now and the end of August). Like last year, we have a surplus in the General Fund, and there are two major factors contributing to this. The first is the lack of expenses associated with Congress, which are generally quite substantial (and are not covered by the Congress registration fees). In 2018-2019, expenses related to Congress were about $9600, while registration fees provided about $4100. Much of the deficit in 2018-2019 was attributable to this factor alone. Note that 2019 was the first year that we did not host a banquet dinner during Congress, instead having only a small reception, which significantly decreased the costs associated with Congress; however, these costs are still substantial. Additionally, we are not hosting the Craigie Lecture this year, which would have been another significant expense.

The second major factor is a change in fees by Sage publishers for those members subscribing to the Studies in Religion journal through CSBS. Through 2021, their fees were $35 per full member and $30 per student/contract/retired member. As of 2022, because the journal is now entirely online, they have lowered their fees to $20 per full member and $10 per student/contract/retired member, so we had an unexpected surplus from that decrease in fees. Figure 2 shows that we paid about $500 less to Sage in this fiscal year than last year, despite having more members subscribing to the journal.

In recent years, it has been the practice to transfer about $2500-$3000 from the Endowment Fund to the bank account to help cover the deficit in the operating budget. This year, like last year, we have deemed this transfer to be unnecessary.

However, it should be noted that the Federation raised their fees significantly this year, having frozen them last year due to Covid, and we should expect that they will continue to raise their fees on a yearly basis. Likewise, our accountant raises his fees slightly each year due to inflation. Additionally, we anticipate an in-person conference next year, with all the expenses that entails. We have not raised membership fees since 2016.

Proposal: That we adjust membership fees downward based on the decreased amount owed to Sage, and then raise fees $10 for full members and $5 for student/contract/retired members.

Currently: Full members pay $103.20, while those who do not pay for the journal pay $67.20. Based on the Sage fee decrease of $15, adjust full members paying for SR to $88.20, then raise both by $10: $98.20 for SR and $77.20 without.

Currently: Student/contract/retired members pay $51.75, while those who do not pay for the journal pay $20.90. Based on the Sage fee decrease of $20, adjust those paying for SR to $31.75, then raise both by $5: $36.75 with the journal and $25.90 without.

Further proposal: That we raise membership fees slightly every year to keep up with rising costs due to inflation/increases in the Society's expenditures.

3. Endowment Report (from Bob Derrenbacker)

Endowment Committee Members: Robert Derrenbacker (Chair), Richard Ascough, Mark Leuchter (CSBS Executive Secretary), Michele Murray, Laura Hare (CSBS Treasurer), Wayne McCready (Past Chair, non-voting)

The endowment for the Canadian Society of Biblical Studies (CSBS) is divided into two different funds: The Inaugural Endowment Fund (established in 1998) and the recently created Falconer Endowment Fund (established in 2018). The total current market value for both endowment funds is $322,395 (as of 11 May 2022). Both the Inaugural Endowment funds and the Falconer Endowment funds are invested through Research Capital Corporation (formerly Mackie Research Capital Corporation) (established in 1921).

The Endowment Committee reports on the Endowment Portfolio to the CSBS Executive twice annually (January/February and May).

The Inaugural Endowment has two primary objectives:

- 1. to assist in providing a sustainable financial base for Society initiatives through an endowment
- 2. to make funds available on an annual basis – through earned income from investments – for Society expenses (determined by the Treasurer and the CSBS Executive)

The Inaugural Endowment reflects a 30-year rolling plan investment strategy. Specifically, the portfolio has the following primary categories of investment (current market values provided for 11 May 2022, with a total value of $247,690):

- 1. Fixed Income (including cash/cash equivalents): $52,904 (21%)
- 2. Mutual Funds: $25,150 (10%)
- 3. Common Stock Equities: $169,636 (69%)

From 1998 to 11 May 2022 the market value of the portfolio increased by almost 350% from the original investment of $56,425 for an annual growth of approximately 13% over 23 years. In addition, approximately $97,000 has been earned during that period through investment income to meet Society expenses or to be re-invested.

Importantly, the Society’s modified dividend growth investment strategy means that annual dividend income from the common stock equities portion of the portfolio is projected to be $7,674 for 2022.

The Falconer Endowment Fund (established 2018) was created to provide support for a short-term research project ($1,500/year). As of 11 May 2022, the market value of this endowment was $74,709 as indicated below, with a projected income of $2,708. The Falconer Endowment is currently divided into three segments:

- 1. Fixed Income (including money market fund/cash): $657 (1%)
- 2. Common Stock Equities: $69,886 (94%)
- 3. Alternative Equities (Auto-Callable Notes): $4,166 (5%)
